THE WASATCH WAVE

WHS ON

Remember a while back when the school put on an operetta? Perhaps some of us were so young we can't remember, but other cans. It was really a thrilling thing to see and hear, and just as much fun to do as to see. Now, I suppose you're wondering why the school doesn't do it again. Well, you guessed it, the Wasatch High School Music Department, under Elroy Van Wagoner is preparing a new musical, "The Red Mill." It is to be presented February 18 and 20. Victor Herbert wrote the music for the operetta. He has also written music to Naughty Marietta and Babes in Toyland.

The production has been placed in the hands of many of the department heads. The construction of the Red Mill itself is under the supervision of Mr. Hicken, our capable shop instructor, while the flourish of colors for the backdrop and the other stage settings will come from the art department with Mrs. McDonald at the head. No production could be anything without costuming. Miss Robinson and her classes have been consumed in this project.

Dancing, of course, plays an important part to any staging, and Mrs. Lancaster is aptly handling the artistic side of this. Last, but not least is the plot, which Mr. Larsen is teaching the players so well. A grand note of thanks should be expressed to all of these people.

The plot has all the makings of a Hatchcock thriller. A girl betrothed to a Governor for parents' gain, who, of course, doesn't love the old flirt, plans her escape. Helped by two crafty Americans, the plot thickens. The group makes good their plans until they meet up with the sheriff. The sheriff is a fine fellow who has never made an arrest. The appearance of a young French miss and a Mr. Pennyfeather creates quite a complicated plot which, of course, can only be solved by the famous detective . . . Well, perhaps you should arrange to see it for yourself. You won't soon forget it.

Remember February 18 and 20, for the highlight of the year, the Red Mill.
